Our adoption announcement.

We are proud to announce the adoption of our daughter

Morasha Rael מורשה ראל
born June 23, 1998

and our son

Iyal Navon איל נבון
born June 21, 1998

Donnie and Harvey Winokur

I have to admit, the hat DOES look ridiculous!
I sure look cute, though!!
The day after my adoption - Mom and I are ready to explore Moscow!

Two days after we were brother and sister
- Iyal already wants me to wake up and play with him!

At eighteen months, I was
"telling my story" in pictures.

Oh, the days we spent rocking in our favorite chairs.

My beloved "Giggy" shares
books with me.

And fun with Aunt Joyce and Uncle Jed (my mom's brother).

Iyal and our Pop-pop have a very special relationship.

We actually shared . . . when we were little.

I LOVED my cupcake!

At five, I wanted to be a rock star and I liked Clifford, the Big Red Dog. We think Chancer is a lot like Clifford.

Red is a good color for me . . . it is a "power" color.

When you're four years old, you always want what your sister has - even if it's the same toy.

I wanted to 'text' . . . even at two years old!

First day of Kindergarten.

It's fun being a kid!!

Here I am dressing up like my dad when he goes to work.
He's a rabbi.
And he works a lot!

Iyal and I visited the Great Swamp in New Jersey.

We were quite the pair and ready for some Halloween treats!!

And we didn't even know how badly we needed him!

Itsy Bitsy Chancer.
It's hard to imagine HE was ever THIS TINY!

4 PAWS for ABILITY TRAINING

Mom and I worked hard to practice
"tethering" with Chancer.

We spent a lot of time training.

This is what love looks like.
See what I mean by being the best dog for Iya!?!

Mom and Chancer getting ready to take the service dog test with lead trainer, Jeremy.

We even had a training exercise at the mall!

Chancer and his friend, Dante.

We taught him how to "high five".

What would a girl do without her BFFs?

FAMILY

Mom, lyal, and me.

Dad, Chancer, and Eilat tucking in lyal.

Manhattan sleeps with me every night and Chancer stays with lyal.

We had fun at lyal's summer camp!

Chancer on a play date with his BFF - Lucky.

FRIENDS

Manhattan supervised while I used treats to practice the "LEAVE IT" command.

My dad practicing REST with Eilat and Chancer.

We don't get to rest too often. When he has to go . . . he has to go! Rain or shine!

Iyal and Papa Doug (my dad's father) and me.

MY DAD'S FAMILY

Dad's family Aunt Ilene, Meemie, and Papa Doug.

Giggy, Pop-pop, Aunt Joyce, and Mom Uncle Jed is in the front.

Join Blankies for Babies

In 2002, my friend Liz Kulp started the Blankies for Babies program in the United States to help people know how important it is to not drink alcohol while a mom is pregnant. Children all around the world tie small fleece blankets that are given to their local clinics as first gifts for new mothers. This is a way kids can help stop this disability from happening.

You can get a little brochure for your own Blankies for Babies project at www.thechancerchronicles.com

Then all you have to do is print out the notecard and attach it to your blankets before you bring them to a clinic near you.
